

WEEKEND BRUNCH CHEF FOR NORDIC CAFE

Do you love the Nordic lifestyle, and have a passion for healthy modern Scandi food?

Blåbär are looking for a part time weekend chef to join our friendly Nordic café and design store in Putney.

Our aim is to give people a true experience of the Nordics, through both the environment and the food we serve which in true modern Scandi style is healthy & nutritious.

We serve a weekday menu of open top sandwiches, soup & salad. A few months ago we started serving a cook to order weekend brunch menu including vegan and gluten free options which is becoming increasingly popular amongst locals and Scandis in south west London. No oil, no processed food, no refined sugar.

We are looking for a part time chef (or student studying cooking) to manage the brunch. We have seating for around 20 people in the cafe. Hours are Fridays to Sundays 9am – 4pm and includes opening of the kitchen, prepping and running service independently. Stock control, waste management and advise on ordering is important.

We are a small business, where each member of the team is valued and adds to the atmosphere. You must be positive & passionate with a good work ethic.

An interest in or experience of cooking Scandi, healthy, fresh & whole food is essential. There are opportunities to add to the menu, and help us evolve.

The role is a great part time job, for a student or someone looking for more hours, working in a fun team with brilliant hours and no evenings.

Must haves:

Understanding of Health and food safety within day to day operations (HACCP)

Understanding of Allergens in modern society

Hard-working with a good attitude and work ethic who has experience working in cafe/casual dining venues.

We require you to send your CV with your previous jobs and qualifications. We will be unable to respond to all applicants so if you do not hear from us within 10 days of sending you CV, your application has not been successful on this occasion.

We look forward to hearing from you!
