

Nutrition Intern

About VITL

VITL is an innovative, London based and mission-driven health and wellness brand. We aspire to provide modern consumers with responsibly made, high-quality and convenient health solutions (including our nutrition packs and VITL Greens superfood powder). Just over a year old, we are already stocked in major global retailers including Whole Foods and Urban Outfitters, yet our journey is only just beginning.

Job Description

We are looking for an enthusiastic and passionate nutrition intern to join our growing team. You will work closely with our Head of Nutrition, Libby Limon, on a wide variety of tasks, including:

- Providing nutrition content for VITL's website, PR and social media
- Assisting with nutritional product development on an array of exciting new projects
- Developing innovative and delicious recipes with VITL/partners' products
- Designing nutritional product training for retailers eg Whole Foods
- Assisting with promotional events to enhance VITL's PR and social media presence
- Advising customers on nutritional-based queries

What we are looking for

Bringing with you passion, initiative and energy into a tight knit team, we want you to be genuinely excited about health and nutrition, as well as redefining the consumer health market and being on board early on in our journey. In return we'll give you key responsibilities right from the outset and support you in developing your skills as you progress.

We are also looking for candidates who have excellent communication and written skills, are highly organised, and have the ability to work independently and in a fast-paced environment.

Compensation Details

- Opportunity to work with our in-house nutritionist, Libby Limon, and VITL's high-quality, innovative supplements.
- Unrivalled exposure to all aspects of how a start-up works
- Opportunity to work within a small close-knit team who all have a real passion for health and nutrition and how new trends and technologies can change the industry in the future
- Responsibility for driving tasks forward with plenty of opportunity to contribute and input new ideas

- Opportunity to learn new skills and develop existing ones in an exciting and collaborative atmosphere
- Copious supply of vitamins
- Smoothie Tuesdays and TED Talk Fridays!
- Compensation dependent on application

Location

London, Victoria – less than a 5 minute walk from Victoria and St James' Park tube stations.
