KINESIOLOGY DIPLOMA COURSE

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

1. The Course

The Kinesiology Diploma Course is only eligible for students who have completed the Kinesiology Foundation course in the past 12 months and are qualified or are in the process of acquiring the qualifications in Anatomy & Physiology and Nutrition, and First Aid Certificate. CNM offers online Anatomy & Physiology (How the Body Works) and Nutrition (Nutrition for Everyday Living) course.

It is at the college's discretion to give credit to prior studies and evidence of previous training would need to be submitted and assessed.

Students must have internet access.

The Kinesiology Diploma will be issued to a student who:

- Completed all 12 Modules (or 24 full-days) of class training and coaching of the Kinesiology Diploma Course.
- Has the required qualifications in Anatomy & Physiology, Nutrition and a First Aid Certificate. See above.
- Attended 100% of all the lectures – class training and coaching (24 full days).
- Has always adhered to the CNM Student Rules.
- Fulfilled the relevant CNM requirements of physical health and has passed the necessary exams
- Completed all the relevant assessments, exams and course requirements (the cost of external assessing is included in the course fee).
- Paid the course fees in full.

2. Study:

The Kinesiology Diploma course is scheduled over 12 months.

This course delivers high-quality vocational training incorporating best practice and current National Occupational Standards (KNOS) in Kinesiology.

There are 12 modules included in the Kinesiology Diploma course. There is home study in the form of questions and case studies, which will be explained in each module. Students complete the home study and hand in on the following module. There is no home study or case studies after module 12 however there is a formal, externally-verified assessment and a final multiple-choice exam.

Course times and days are as follows (subject to change):

- Weekend study: Saturday and Sunday, 10.00 a.m.– 5.00 p.m.
- Weekday study: Wednesday, 10 a.m.–5.00 p.m.

Students will be offered tutorials in addition to the 24 lecture days.

The Kinesiology Diploma can be taken in class (London) only. The college reserves the right to cancel a course should the minimum number of students not be met before course commencement. Late completions of the diploma course (more than 6 months after the course end date) will be required to repeat classes at an additional fee.
